

ADÉ HOGUE, a designer based in Chicago, Illinois, originally approached this piece simply, but then a scanner mishap changed everything. “The [poster] is now a collage of a hand drawn lettering piece that has been scanned and manipulated on the scanner bed,” Hogue says. “I think it helps amplify the many times we’ve felt we need to shout this phrase.”

TEACHING
TOLERANCE
A PROJECT OF THE SOUTHERN POVERTY LAW CENTER