

Researching Disabilities

For your group's topic, complete research on the following elements to help structure your work.

1. What part(s) of the body/mind does this disability affect?

2. How does this disability affect a person?

3. What are some specific challenges a person with this disability may need to overcome?

4. What is one thing you never knew about this disability that you learned from doing this research?

5. What new questions do you have about this disability that you would like to explore more in depth?
